Turkish Quake Death Estimate Reaches 42,000

New Tremors Rock Stricken Country Today as Blizzards and Winds Add to Suffering of Many Thousands of Homeless.

(By Associated Press)

ANKARA, Turkey—Officials announced today 42,000 persons were killed or injured in the region of Erzincan alone in yesterday's Anatolian earthquake.

New tremors shook Anatolia today while a blizzard and fierce winds increased the suffering of hundreds of thousands of homeless.

A heavy storm raged along the Black sea coast, tearing ships loose from moorings and battering down seaside homes.

With the temperature 22 degrees below zero (Fahrenheit) many of thousands of earthquake survivors who had fled to fields were frozen to death, according to sparse reports reaching Ankara officials.

Twelve cities ranging in population from 12,000 to 40,000, and 80 villages were said to have been demolished. In the city of Tokat alone, 953 persons were reported killed and 443 injured.

Dwellings were shaken down on the sleeping occupants.

Erzincan, a city of 40,000, lay in flaming ruins. Every large building had collapsed, including a large military barracks where all the officers, 90 cadets and a large number of soldiers were killed.

Erzincan is about 350 miles east of Ankara and about 200 miles east of Sivas and Samsun, in the area which earlier reports had indicated was hardest hit.

Before the report on the Erzincan district reached Ankara, an unofficial estimate had given the number killed or injured yesterday in Anatolia as 9,000.

Bursting gas mains and overturned oil lamps set fire to collapsed building in almost every corner of the wide disaster area.

Slowly, bit by bit, over disrupted communications the picture of the catastrophe was put together.

Hundreds who escaped death in the wholesale collapse of buildings met a more gruesome fate when they were trapped by fires which spread quickly in the stricken area.

Whole villages were turned into vast funeral pyres.

Screams of the trapped women and children mingled with the dull roar of crumbling masonry, the crash of breaking glass, and sirens of ambulances and fire engines.

The lack of apparatus to fight hundreds of fires which still were burning frustrated attempts to recover bodies or to check the extent of casualties accurately.

Communication Severed.

Many towns and villages still were cut off entirely from the outside world by the wrecking of communication facilities.

In the crowded section of cities, the streets were strewn with bodies of persons killed by falling debris.

Whole families were buried in their beds under tons of wreckage.

Others were burned to death

LOSES LIFE NEAR HOME

Three Injured in Series of Auto Crashes During Night on Slippery Roads.

Slipping on the icy highway and falling in the path of an oncoming automobile, Mrs. Minnie Hershey, 65, was fatally injured shortly before noon today near her home on route 42, south of Mansfield.

Mrs. Hershey died in General hospital at 11:30 a. m., less than an hour after she had been removed there in an ambulance.

Richland County's 1939 Traffic Toll

28

This date last year—23

The fatality was the 28th in Richland county traffic this year, five more than was killed in highway mishaps in 1938.

County Coroner Hugh C. Winbigler said the woman died of a skull fracture suffered when she was knocked to the pavement.

State highway patrolmen said Mrs. Hershey, a widow, was struck by a car driven by G. W. Gearhart, 28, of Lexington, an automobile salesman who was en route to Mansfield with a companion, William Farst, also of Lexington.

Crash Outside City.

The accident occurred about 250 yards north of Cook road, outside the Mansfield city limits.

Gearhart told the officers that Mrs. Hershey, who was en route to her home, slipped on the ice and fell in front of his car as she attempted to run east across the highway. He said he was unable to stop the car immediately on the slippery pavement.

Patrolmen who examined the machine reported the brakes in working order. The driver was not held.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home.

Highways made slippery by the snow and light rain which fell last night and then froze, resulted in a series of accidents in the Mansfield area in which three persons were injured.

More snow was forecast for most of Ohio tonight as state and county highway workers dug out of yesterday's storm which left as much as eight inches of snow in the southern counties of the state.

Finns Close In on Vital Soviet Rail Supply Line

As Winter Covers City With Blanket of White

--News-Journal Photos.

Mobile Troops Aim at Tracks

Russian Tank Attacks Fail Again; Lake Fights Continue For 12th Day; Finns Claim Reds Retreat 50 Miles at Salla.

(By Associated Press)

HELSINKI—Finland's defensive invasion of Soviet Russia was broadened today by a second thrust toward the Murmansk railway, supply artery for Red invaders in the far north.

At the same time Finnish forces in the Karelian isthmus, southeastern Finland, reported that repeated Russian tank attacks were shattered on the Mannerheim line.

Finnish airmen, co-operating with swift, phantom-like ski troops in white, were said to have carried the eastern offensive to the railway itself with a series of bombing attacks.

Paralleling the movement of ski patrols from Lieksa, Finns were reported advancing into Soviet territory toward the railway in the Salla area, where the line runs within 45 miles of the border.

There were reports—but no confirmation—that the highly mobile ski patrols had reached their railway objective.

They were said to be bent on tactics similar to those of Lawrence of Arabia in the World war—swift forays to find weakly guarded stretches of track, then a dynamiting and withdrawal before opposing forces could reach the scene.

The Red army was reported previously to have been driven back 50 miles in the Salla sector, about 230 miles north of Lieksa, point of the first Finnish invasion of Russia.

A Finnish ski battalion was reported continuing its penetration east of Lieksa.

On the isthmus front each side retained its positions despite Russian attacks with heavy artillery and tanks. The Finnish communique yesterday said an enemy attack north of Lake Hatjalathi was repulsed and eight tanks destroyed.

Day and night artillery fire continued against Viipuri, near the isthmus, but on the lake-dotted Karelian front there had not yet been a decisive battle.

Russian thrusts in an attempt to cross Lake Suvanto were accompanied by aerial bombings of the southern coast area for the 12th consecutive day.

Civilian deaths from bombings throughout Finland were placed unofficially at 150 since the start of the war.

Guerrilla fighting increased on the northern Suomussalmi and Petsamo fronts, Finnish advices said, with forces in skis moving swiftly through the snowy wilderness.

IT'S ELECTION DAY FOR 2,800

Westinghouse Employes Go to Polls Today to Decide on Bargaining Agency.

Nearly 2,800 Westinghouse employes were to go to the polls today in the biggest labor election Mansfield has ever had to decide whether the employes will be represented in their labor dealings by the independent Westinghouse Employes' association or no organization at all.

Conducted like any other election, the voting began at 7 a. m. today and the polls will be open until 10 p. m. A simple majority will decide the outcome.

Voting booths were set up in all departments of the plant and employes who were declared eligible to vote were given ballots bearing the question of a collective bargaining agency. If the worker desires representation by the Westinghouse Employes association, he votes "yes" and if not, "no."

Andrew Meyer, Walter Taag, and Louis Plost, field examiners from the regional office of the National Labor Relations board at Cleveland, are in charge of the election.

Meyer said it probably will require an hour and a half to tabulate the votes after the polls close. They will be counted here, but the results will be announced later from the Cleveland NLRB office.

The election was ordered several weeks ago by the NLRB after the Westinghouse Employes' association, an independent organization, requested a vote to determine a bargaining agency for the workers.

At first there was a prospect of a contest between the employes' association and the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers union, a CIO affiliate, but the UERMW was authorized later to withdraw from the election by the NLRB.

Representatives of the CIO union said they did "not intend to be drawn into the election" which they described as "an attempt to throw Westinghouse workers into a premature test of sentiment on the subject of a collective bargaining agency."

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Gov. John W. Bricker today appointed Rodney P. Lien of Lima as state superintendent of banks to succeed Samuel H. Squire of Elyria.

Lien, president of the National bank of Lima, will take the $7,500-a-year office Jan. 15.

Squire, an appointee of former Gov. Martin L. Davey, announced yesterday he would quit on Jan. 1, but Governor Bricker said the resignation would not be accepted until Jan. 15 so that Squire would have served five full years as bank superintendent.

Bricker said that the Allen county Republican executive committee had endorsed Lien.

THANKS, U. S.!

Finns Wire Appreciation for $200,000 Cash Gifts.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Premier Risto Ryti of Finland cabled the "heartiest thanks" of his people today to Americans for their contributions to relieve civilian suffering in war-torn Finland.

Ryti's message, sent to former President Herbert Hoover as chairman of the Finnish Relief Fund, Inc., was in response to the second $100,000 which Mr. Hoover sent to Finland last week.

"Heartiest thanks for your telegram and your remittance, which I shall transfer to the Cajander committee (official Finnish civilian relief commission, headed by former Premier Aimo K. Cajander," the cable said. "Your ample help and sympathy is a great consolation in this hard time. Hundreds of thousands of suffering people bless your name."

Confer Today on Question of 'Lifting Lid' on New Year Eve

Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist and Police Chief Meade K. Bates were to confer with Mayor-elect William J. Locke today on a plan to suspend the city's liquor ordinance for two and one half hours Monday morning to allow celebrants to greet the New Year in downtown night spots.

Nist said he would ask Locke, who automatically becomes mayor at midnight Sunday, to consider permitting liquor establishments to open at midnight and continue until 2:30 a. m. Monday under provisions of the state laws.

He added that he asked Locke to consider the suspension because any arbitrary setup would come under his jurisdiction.

Terming New Year as the "biggest"-night of the year so far as liquor permit holders are concerned, Nist said he was of the opinion that they should be given a "break" in that the state law allows the sale of intoxicants for two and a half hours.

The city's liquor ordinance prohibits the sale of any intoxicating beverages from midnight Saturday until 6 a. m. on Monday.

In other parts of the country 1940 will be greeted with the same hilarity as it was ushered in the 1930's, but the celebrations will differ in several essentials.

The lid will be off in New York City, as it will in Los Angeles and San Francisco and in Chicago, although somewhat extra-legally. In Detroit, Washington, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Kansas City, Milwaukee and Salt Lake City legal complications will muzzle public hilarity.

Special licenses can be obtained by New York hotels and night clubs extending the legal 4 a. m. closing law, and managers of the leading spots there said reservations indicated a 10 to 12 per cent better business than a year ago. Prices will be about 10 per cent lower, but even so the cover charges will be tops for the country. One place will charge $20 a person; another $30 a couple.

No sudden enforcement of local liquor laws was expected in Chicago and night spot managers reported reservations running "slightly better" than last year. Prices ranged from $7 to $20 a couple.

Dies Probers Say Nazi Agent Photographed U. S. Plants.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The Dies committee charged today that Dr. Colin Ross, a registered Nazi propagandist, recently toured the United States in a special automobile equipped with motion picture cameras and attempted to photograph "specialized industrial plants."

His activities, the committee charged, "appeared to come within the category of espionage."

The committee recommended that Ross, a German of Scottish descent, "be prevented from ever again setting foot on American soil." He was in the United States as recently as March 17, when he sailed for Japan aboard the Japanese liner Asama Maru.

Ashlander Sentenced After Week-Old Probation Is Revoked.

ASHLAND—After one week of freedom under a suspended sentence, Howard Leach, 35, Ashland, was taken to the Ohio penitentiary today to serve two one-to-three terms of obtaining money under false pretense.

Leach was granted leniency a week ago by Common Pleas Judge H. E. Culbertson who late yesterday suspended one sentence and imposed another, ordering them to be served concurrently. Leach violated his probation by associating with a certain woman whom the court had ordered him to stay away from, court attaches said.

CHARGES: Nazis Say British Incited Finland to Resist Soviet

BULLETIN

LONDON—(U.P.)—The Daily Herald reported today that Field Marshal Hermann Goering was in disfavor with Adolf Hitler and had retired to his shooting chalet at Schorfheide, Germany, where he was planning a come back campaign "on his own terms."

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—The mouthpiece of the German foreign office charged today that Great Britain and France had deliberately incited Finland to resist Soviet Russia to upset northern Europe and thus interfere with the regular flow of supplies to Germany.

The semi-official commentary Deutsche Diplomatisch-Politische Korrespondenz said that "from the moment it became certain that Russia was not willing to pull chestnuts out of the fire for the western powers the efforts of these powers centered on bringing about complications in the north."

"On one hand it seemed desirable to engage Russia there with her military and material resources; on the other it was considered worth trying, through the resulting confusion, to interfere with the possibilities of supplying Germany from this area which cannot be blockaded."

The Allies have no idealistic interest in Finland, Korrespondenz declared, but merely are using her for their own purposes.

The mouthpiece argued that the ousting of Russia from the League of Nations and the league decision to co-ordinate aid for Finland was part of the Allied plan but that neither Britain nor France intended to offer active help.

The Allies planned merely to give moral support and furnish supplies, the commentary added, but the war materials forthcoming were outmoded.

HISTORY: Pope Calls On King Of Italy In Colorful Pageantry

(By Associated Press)

ROME—Pope Pius XII visited Italy's king and queen today in a rare display of papal pomp and royal ceremony signifying the ever-closer relations between the Vatican and the Italian state.

The glittering pageantry marked the first visit by any pope to the ruler of the present Italian empire and the first call on a temporal prince in more than 70 years.

It formally repaid the visit to His Holiness by King Vittorio Emanuele and Queen Elena a week ago.

The occasion, rich with color and formality, symbolized the final dissolution of any discord over unified Italy's seizure of Rome from the pope in 1870 and the city's designation as the Italian capital.

In some foreign eyes the ceremonial also signified possible co-operation between the Vatican and the government toward eventual peace efforts, but Fascist authorities disclaimed any co-ordination of foreign policies.

The pope and Premier Mussolini both are hostile to Bolshevism, but Virginio Gayda, editor who often expresses correctly the government's view, said today's meeting lacked any connection with policies or "concrete problems of war and peace."

Writing in the Giornale D'Italia, Gayda said that while "war and the problem of peace find the church and Italy on the same plane, their conceptions and evaluations differ."

He explained that the church thought in terms of humanity generally, while the government thought in terms of Italy's "worldly interests," including "the quality of right and possessions with other nations."

ARMY OFFICER'S NOVEL ON SUDAN HEADS FICTION

'No Arms, No Armour,' Which Won International Prize, Added by Library.

A novel by Robert Henriques with British military service in the Sudan as its theme, and a collection of Gorki's short stories, are among the four fiction volumes which were added to the Public library this week. Fourteen non-fiction books were added.

NO ARMS, NO ARMOUR by Henriques is a novel of a British soldier, Tubby Windrush, stationed in the Sudan. The author is a 34-year-old major in the British army and he has served in Egypt and the Sudan. The novel shows the growth of Tubby's personality under trying conditions, in the burning heat of the Sudan where men must quarrel or go mad.

Entered in the second All-Nations Prize Novel Competition this story won the international prize and is to be published in a number of foreign countries. Literary Guild of America sponsors this contest which gave the prize to Johann Foldes' "Street of the Fishing Cat" several years ago.

BOOK OF SHORT STORIES by Maxim Gorki edited by Avrahm Yarmolinsky and Baroness Moura Budberg with foreword by Aldous Huxley is the first book bringing together in English translation and arranging chronologically a representative and adequate collection of Gorki's best stories covering the years 1894-1924. The stories are translated from the last versions, where revision was done by the author. Included in the collection is the famous story "Creatures That Once Were Men." Six stories are here translated for the first time.

Other fiction: White Magic by Cuthrell. Gone To Texas by Thomason.

Story On San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO'S LITERARY FRONTIER by Franklin Walker presents a social and literary history of San Francisco between 1849 and 1869, from the time of the Gold Rush to the coming of the railroad. Lives of the chief writers who contributed to the city's journals of that time, i. e. Bret Harte, Mark Twain, Henry George and others, are given to show the relation between the rough frontier life and the literature which sprang up. From contemporary journals Mr. Walker has culled entertaining accounts of literary wars waged over the first books to be published by San Francisco authors.

THE FACE OF A NATION by Thomas Wolfe contains poetical passages from the writings of this author, illustrated with decorations by Edward Shenton. The author who "would rather be a poet than anything else in the world" was, first of all, a poet, with a sensitivity to word-music.

THE YOUNG MELBOURNE by David Cecil is a biography of the statesman's younger years before he was active in public office. To portray the development of his character the author describes chiefly Melbourne's wife, Caroline, who lost her head, and finally her mind over her love for Lord Byron.

MACHINES OVER MEN by Raymond F. Yates explains what the modern robot is and how it is used to govern agriculture, manufacture, communication, transportation (by ship and plane,) research and business. He also gives a short history of the robot.

Other non-fiction:

FAST WALKERS

U. S. Troops Marched 45 Long Miles in 15 Hours.

MARYVILLE, Mo. —(AP)— It probably doesn't amount to much in these days of stream-lined infantry units but Charles Still, of Maryville, has discovered a line in an old record book that has a lot of hidden blisters in it.

It tells of a record Companies A and B of the 4th Missouri infantry set in 1916.

They walked from San Ynacio to Laredo, Tex., during the days of the "Mexican incident," a distance of 45 miles in 15 hours.

It broke all marching records of United States troops.

The population of Canada is estimated at 11,195,000.

START OF MOST PEACEFUL NIGHT

ROANOKE, Va.—(AP)—Statisticians calculated it could happen only once in 54,000 cuttings of a deck of cards.

Six married couples here, comprising the Sleepy Hollow Bridge club, met regularly for 11 years and cut cards for partners. One night recently, the cutting paired man and wife as partners in all six couples. That's the way they were paired for the first hand over a decade ago.

HALIFAX—(U.P.)—Crooks are making things pretty tough for prisoners in the city jail. Prison gardens, worked by the convicts, outside the walls of the institution, have been raided so consistently that an armed guard has been posted nightly.

DEBT POSITION BEST SINCE '29 FOR FARMERS

Forced Sales Decline to 16.8 Mark Per 1,000 Persons, Reports Indicate.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Farm mortgage foreclosures, which led to rioting in several communities a few years ago, have declined to the lowest point in 10 years, the Department of Agriculture has revealed.

The debt position of farmers has improved considerably since 1935, the report compiled by the bureau of agricultural economics said. Land values have increased and the total farm real estate debt has declined to the lowest point in 20 years.

During the year ended last March 1, only 16.8 of every 1,000 farm owners lost their land through forced sales, foreclosure and tax sales. This compared with 17.4 farms the previous year and 28.3 in the year ended March 1, 1935, when foreclosures started to become less frequent.

Most of the forced sales last year were due to mortgage foreclosures, bankruptcy or transfers of titles to avoid foreclosures. The bureau reported 13.4 farms in each 1,000 changed hands because of one of those difficulties. In 1935 the number was 21 per 1,000 farms.

Tax Sales Dwindle.

The number of forced sales on account of delinquent taxes was 3.4 per 1,000 last year, compared with 7.3 in 1935. Forced sales of farms to meet taxes has declined to the lowest point since 1926, the bureau said.

Farms changing hands through voluntary sales and trades were estimated at 28.2 per 1,000 in the 12 months ended in March this year, as compared with 29.9 in 1938 and 19.4 in 1935. Last year was the fifth consecutive year in which voluntary sales increased.

Using the years 1912-1914 as an index of 100 in computing land values of the last few years, the bureau reported an increase from 73 in 1938 to 84 in 1939.

The increase during this period was most marked in the South Atlantic and East South Central states, where values rose 26 and 30 points respectively on the index figure.

Debt Smallest Since 1919.

The bureau reported a continued decline in farm mortgage debt during the last five years from $7,800,000,000 on Jan. 1, 1935, to $710,000,000 on Jan. 1, 1939. That was the smallest debt since 1919.

Foreclosures last year were heaviest in the thickly populated farm areas. In New England the foreclosure rate per 1,000 farms dropped from 18 in 1935 to 12.7 last year, while the West North Central states comprising most of the corn and wheat belts, dropped from 40.6 to 26.9 per 1,000 farms.

Foreclosures in the middle Atlantic states declined from 23.9 to 13.5 per 1,000 farms in the four years. East north central states foreclosures dropped from 23.5 to 13.5 and South Atlantic states from 24.5 to 13.4. The west south central declined from 22.9 to 15.5; mountain states from 35.7 to 24.3 and the Pacific coast states from 24.6 to 17.5.

Ohio Valley Dwellers Told No Big Floods Seen Till '45.

BOWLING GREEN, O. —(INS)— Dwellers along the Ohio river need fear no major flood before the winter of 1945-46, if predictions of Edwin L. Moseley, professor emeritus of biology at Bowling Green State university, are borne out.

Professor Moseley recently published in the Ohio Journal of Science an article entitled "long time forecasts of Ohio river floods."

"If great floods," he said, "are not so rare in summer, I would expect one in the summer of 1940.

"There will be high water in the river several times before the middle of 1943. These include the summer of 1940, the latter part of the summer of 1942, and the spring of 1943. In the five years following the spring of 1943, if a great flood occurs, it will probably be in the winter of 1945-46."

Professor Moseley's predictions are based upon measurements of tree rings which he has made over a period of 15 years. The width of these rings, he claims, indicated that extremely wet periods occur in this section in 90-year cycles.

NAMES COUNSEL

Court Appoints Attorneys for 2 Indicted by Jury.

Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston had appointed counsel today for George Call, Sharon township, and Earl Montgomery, Zanesville, who are in the county jail awaiting trial on criminal charges.

Atty. James Hoffman was named to represent Call and Atty. John Catlett was appointed counsel for Montgomery. The trials probably will be next week although definite dates have not been set.

Call, a WPA worker, who allegedly assaulted a 14-year-old Bellville school girl and molested several other girls, was indicted for rape, attempted rape, and kidnaping. He pleaded innocent to the first two charges, but he has not been arraigned on the kidnaping indictment.

Montgomery was indicted on charges of armed robbery and kidnaping after he allegedly figured in the abduction and robbery of Harold J. Stauffer, Mansfield, several months ago.

BOOSTS HOP INDUSTRY

SANTA ROSA, Cal.—(U.P.)—War has boosted one industry here. That is hops. With South American countries unable to get their usual supply from Germany, orders are being received here. They necessitate the pressing of the hops so that the usual 200-pound bales are now reduced to half their former size.

NEW YORK—Quiet and selective rallying tendencies were displayed in today's stock market.

With the pace much slower than in the preceding session, gains of fractions predominated.

Accorded moderate support were Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, United Aircraft, Anaconda, Kennecott, Consolidated Edison, North American, Allied Chemical, Eastman Kodak and U. S. Gypsum. Backward were Douglas Aircraft, Westinghouse and Du Pont

Brokers thought that much of the selling for income tax purposes had been completed and here and there reinvestment buying cropped up as a sustaining influence.

Bonds held to a narrow course and commodities generally pointed lower.

Encouraging to recovery contingents were the figures of the Edison Electric institute for the week ended Dec. 23, disclosing the country's electric power production hit a record peak, greater than seasonally expected.

Reflecting mainly the sharp pickup in holiday business, bank clearings in 22 principal cities, as summarized by Dun & Bradstreet for the shortened week ended yesterday, topped the same period last year by 15 6 per cent, breaking a series of six year-to-year declines in the Christmas week.

OHIO WONDERS ABOUT DONAHEY

Will His Desire to Keep U. S. At Peace Lead to His Staying In Field?

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Ohio's senior senator, A. V. "Vic" Donahey, who has repeatedly stated his intention of retiring from political life, may altar his plans because of the European war.

Donahey had continued to say he would retire even after the president urged him to run for re-election to the higher branch of congress. He reserved his final decision to the first of the year.

But as war clouds gathered in Europe, and the paramount problem of keeping this country out of the conflict confronted the legislative as well as the executive branch of the government, Donahey has indicated that he may forego his personal desire to retire to his Indian Lake retreat.

The veteran Democrat has strong convictions on the subject of American neutrality. He has said that he would never vote to send American soldiers overseas to fight. His remarks have been interpreted as meaning that he would never sanction war by this country's armed forces unless we were faced with invasion.

Donahey has maintained an open mind on the subject of repeal of the arms embargo, but it was believed that he would line up with the administration forces if he could be convinced that such action would not necessarily lead this country into war.

If Donahey should decide to run for reelection next year, it would throw the senate fight wide open. No Democrat could hope to win the nomination from "Honest Vic." And the Donahey name on the ballot would give pause to many Republicans who are contemplating running for the senatorial seat.

It appeared certain, however, that no person, party or consideration could persuade the senator to run for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. Donahey has on many occasions definitely and absolutely refused requests from the state's Democratic leaders to run for the governor's chair and thus reunite the split party ranks.

His desire to retire to private life is strong. Only his desire to keep this country out of war is stronger.

TELL BILL GOODBYE + + + + + +

By MARIE BLIZARD

(Copyright, 1939.)

CHAPTER THIRTY-TWO

THE LAST Sunday in February was like an early April day. The sun, long obscured during a rainy, cold month, shone brightly, drying the sidewalks and bringing an illusion of spring. Its shafts came through the window of Fabienne's bedroom, summoning her from sleep to awake with a sense of anticipation.

She looked at the clock on her bedside table, saw that it was almost half past eight, and sprung from her bed. She went into the kitchen and plugged in the cord of the electric percolator. Then she went to the door of Ellen's room. "Get up, lazy bones. It's almost half past eight. The boys are coming at 9," she called.

Ellen said, "I'll be ready in a jiffy."

"Don't be late, darling, I don't want to miss a minute of this glorious day."

Bill was taking them up to the country. "Another chap and I have a small house—it's really a shack—up in Connecticut, a few miles from Danbury. We bought it for a song and hope some day to use it for a laboratory. Up to now, we've only used it as sort of a camping out place on rare summer vacations. Some nice Sunday we'll drive up there and rough it for the day" Bill had said the night they played bridge at his apartment.

* * *

Immediately Fabienne and Nicky said they wanted to do it at once.

"Okay," Bill had given in. And so now the day had come.

Promptly at 9 Bill pulled up in back of Nicky's sleek roadster in his own battered sedan of venerable years.

Nicky had summoned the girls and now Fabienne had a new picture of Bill to add to the gallery of memories — Bill in riding breeches with a leather windbreaker buttoned up to his throat beneath a firm chin.

He eyed her ski suit costume with paternal consideration. "You going to be warm enough in that outfit? We're not going to a real country house, you know."

"I will," she said, embarrassed by his attention. "What in the world have you got in that huge box?"

Wait until you see. It's fodder."

"Looks like enough for an army. What time will we get there?"

"It's only a three-hour drive when the roads are open. We'll have to take a road that I don't know because the pass to our place is snowed under, I'm told. I've got a road map somewhere here," he said, fishing in the seat pocket. "Who's good at this sort of thing?"

"I am," Fabienne said, getting in the back seat beside Nicky. "As a back seat driver, I'm probably the best there is. Also once I see a map, I never forget the route."

She little dreamed how true—and how important that statement was to prove in the events that came about all because she learned the backwoods route that day.

Once clear of the maze of city traffic and on the open parkway, Bill's nondescript car ate up the miles between New York and Stamford and, with Fabienne's help, they found the back road, open and clear between fields that were still white from the last snows, that led to Stepney, Newtown and Danbury. "Mallory's Folly is just off the main road about five miles between Stepney and Newtown. Danbury is the next big town," Bill told them.

The information fell on Fabienne's ears and was tucked away in her memory to use on a later occasion that was to make front page news in every paper in the country.

* * *

"Mallory's Folly" was a very small, very old house tucked away between two Connecticut hills, miles from any other house and forlorn indeed to the eye of the beholder.

"There is it," Bill said. "Next time we'll come in the summer. It isn't quite so bleak then."

"I'll bet it's nice inside," Ellen told him loyally. "It looks as if it might be nice and cozy."

"It is as long as the wood holds out. I'd hate to pass any time here in winter when the wood supply is low." Bill turned a rusty knob.

"Don't you lock it up?" Fabienne asked.

"No. Not even a tramp would stop here." He opened the door and stood aside while the girls went in.

Fabienne and Ellen looked and turned back to him enthusiastically. "It's grand!" they both said.

It wasn't really. But the low-ceilinged living room, with its great stone hearth and cheery Indian rugs on the walls was attractive. There were only two chairs; the twin army cots, covered with more Indian blankets, completed the seating arrangements.

Nicky came to the door with the large cardboard carton in his arms. "Where does this go?"

"Into the kitchen. The other room is shut off. We intended to use it for a lab. Come along, girls, and see the pride of the Folly."

It was an old-fashioned kitchen with a big stove in one corner and a sink in the other. A crude table stood between the two beneath a cupboard

Bill opened the cupboard doors. "Plenty of stores here," he said, "in case we get snowed in." There were a half dozen cans of soup, some condensed milk, a package of dried codfish and a tin of corned beef hash. There was also a complete collection of spices and herbs neatly arranged in labeled containers. "The sink doesn't work. We have to get water from the pump. I brought a gallon for an emergency."

Nicky was unloading the food, bringing out a steak big enough for a political picnic, cans and bags of vegetables and fruit, a jug of cider, a bottle of milk and various other articles.

Bill began taking logs and kindling from a pile in one corner of the kitchen. "I'll get a hearth fire started and then get the kitchen range fire going.

"I'll do that," Ellen said. "I learned how to cook in a farmhouse kitchen."

"Maybe you did," Nicky told her with a grin, "but I'm the lad who does the steak."

"Oh, smarty!" Ellen retorted. "I'll bet you can't bake a pie. I could if I had the proper things."

Bill had come back for another armload of wood. "Let's see if you can," he said. "There's plenty of flour, sugar and all the other stuff that ought to be all right. Channing — that's my co-owner, stocked up before he went west a few weeks ago."

* * *

In a surprisingly short time, Ellen, very pretty and very domestic with a smudge of flour under her sparkling eyes, was putting a pie into the oven.

Feeling entirely too much like a lily of the fields, Fabienne wandered about, trying to find a task foor herself. Like a small jealous child, she said, "I know how to make apple butter. Aunt Edna had a cook from New England who taught me how. We had apple butter three times a day for months. I's the only thing I know how to cook."

"With cider?" Bill asked eagerly.

She nodded.

"Boy, oh boy, have you got your work cut out for you! I loved that stuff when I was a kid. Tell you what we'll do—after dinner—Nicky and Ellen can go exploring while you and I cook up a mess of it. There's plenty of stuff here, spice and all that. We'll see how domestic you are"

Fabienne, anxious to show off, said hestitatingly, "Well—"

"No 'wells' about it. You make me some apple butter. It was no mere accident that you mentioned it, my gal; it was nothing short of pre-destined."

Strange that he should have said it for, less than a month later, his words had come to have a deep, significant truth.

Big Breakfasts Found to Help Young Students

CLEVELAND — (U P) — Thirty-four school children are being used in an experiment here which may eliminate "bolts-and-run" breakfasts—at least if Elizabeth O'Neill, first-grade teacher, has anything to say about it.

After just one week of "regular" breakfasts, children in her class gained one-fourth to two-and-one-half pounds.

After she found that 35 per cent of the children were underweight Miss O'Neill decided that something should be done.

"First I asked a few mothers what their children ate for breakfast," she said. "Most of them said they didn't bother much about the first meal of the day—but just gave the children a little piece of toast and jelly."

The mothers agreed to co-operate with her in an experiment and the result was a class-room breakfast, each morning, with fruit juice, hot cereal and milk on the menu. Food now is contributed on a co-operative plan. Each morning, different mothers provide different foods.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1939.

The furniture around the house isn't the only thing that is overstuffed these past few days.

Carrying the argument a little further—why should anybody have access to television as long as we can't all have it?

It is just as well to remember that the baskets of food distributed to needy families for Christmas do not solve the year 'round problem.

Uniform Traffic Laws Sought

WITH traffic fatalities over the Christmas week-end hovering around the 400 mark, and the year's record likely to exceed the 1938 total, an even more serious approach to solution of highway safety problems is being made for next year.

Realizing that weakness in legislation and enforcement plays a large part in the dangerous driving which causes a large percentage of all accidents, a safety responsibility committee of the American Automobile Association will attempt, through legislation, to force irresponsible drivers off of every road in the United States and Canada.

Under the leadership of this committee efforts will be made to obtain enactment of safety responsibility laws in 14 additional states and one Canadian province, besides seeking improvement in existing laws in 33 states, the District of Columbia and eight provinces.

Ohio is among the states which have need for revision of its motor vehicle laws in assuring ability of motorists to pay for damage they cause, and also to strengthen the drivers' license law to the extent of withholding licenses from persons unfitted to drive a car.

Study of speed limits now prescribed by Ohio law, but unenforced, would also be advisable, as excessive speed has apparently been a contributing cause in practically all major and minor crashes in cities and towns as well as on the highways throughout this state.

Law enforcement and education of drivers stand out as being the two important elements in any program for increasing highway safety—with a weeding out of reckless, habitually careless, incompetent and drunken drivers as an absolute essential.

Long Life of Service Ends

WHEN consideration is occasionally given to world and community troubles and their causes, it is interesting to let thoughts dwell for awhile on some one person whose activities, through a long life, typify the ease with which problems of human relations might be solved if such fine attributes of character and conduct could become universal.

The Rev. Jacob H. Culler, native of Richland county, who died yesterday at the age of 93, is one whom those who knew him might select as a man whose example might well be followed in freeing the world from much of its discord, sorrow and suffering.

It is merely incidental that Rev. Culler served for 68 years as a pastor of the Lutheran church, for, while the ministry opens fine opportunities for helpful service, these are not closed to persons who seek them in other lines of endeavor, and earnest laymen in the church recognize as definite responsibilities as those which rest upon pastors.

The influence of such a man as Rev. Culler upon the lives of thousands whom he served from youth to old age cannot be accurately measured. But if "success" can be considered in terms of happiness and contentment resulting from good deeds it is unlikely that any life work could be adjudged more successful than that performed by Rev. Culler—or better preparation for the eternal life which his faith so confidently foresaw.

Henry L. Doherty, Tireless Worker

ANOTHER of those "stranger than fiction" careers has ended with the death of Henry L. Doherty, whose amazing achievements in the fields of finance and utilities development fitted peculiarly into the era through which he lived.

Although known personally by only a few Mansfield people, the name of Henry L. Doherty has been a familiar one here for the past two decades, because of the entry of Doherty interests into the local utility field, with electric service, street car lines, and one of the two gas companies then serving Mansfield, coming under that control.

Much of the development of electric service in Mansfield and vicinity, in meeting the industrial, business and home needs of a steadily growing city, is credited to the initiative and energy displayed under management of this utility as a Doherty subsidiary.

With changing conditions, natural gas service in Mansfield was later merged, street car lines were abandoned in favor of buses, and in more recent years Doherty interests in Mansfield have been devoted wholly to electric light and power development and service.

Born in Columbus 69 years ago, of Scotch-Irish parentage, Mr. Doherty's boyhood ran along the not unusual lines of that period—meager schooling, a newsboy at the age of 10, office boy at 12. But from then on his career became individualized by energy, ambition, enthusiasm and determination he carried into his task. So evident were these traits that at 20 he was a gas company manager; chief engineer at 30; millionaire at 35 and multimillionaire before he was 50.

By then it was the post-war decade starting with 1920, during which the Doherty utilities empire spread even more magnificently over the country. By 1936 he was listed as a director in 95 corporations and as president of 87 of them.

But in the success story of Henry L. Doherty more is to be found than a peculiar ability to acquire great wealth—for it was as a well-educated engineer and inventor that he preferred to be known. With him the gaining of wealth was merely incidental to more worthy accomplishments which a driving energy and unfaltering determination made possible.

The story of Henry L. Doherty is more inspirational in its revelation of opportunities for display of individual initiative, in whatever field youth may choose, than in its demonstration of how to acquire wealth beyond needs.

Says Wilhelmina of Holland: "This country stands for sanity"—but mightn't Hitler and Stalin regard such a statement as a personal affront?

Milwaukee is considering the idea of having each taxpayer wear a tag—but after awhile he might not have anything to pin it on.

Word comes that Hitler now has secret police watching his secret police—which seems to have endless possibilities.

WASHINGTON—The really sweeping cuts that have been made in the tariff walls by the trade agreement acts are disclosed now in studies made by various agencies in preparation for the expected battle over whether the trade agreement programs shall be continued.

In recent years the United States has imported about $1,800,000,000 in goods of all kinds. Of these about $1,244,000,000 are subject to duties ranging from virtually nothing to more than 100 per cent in special items. Of these imports, the trade agreements have affected about one third, both in varieties of imports and in general value. There are approximately 3,000 dutiable import items of which more than 1100 have been affected by the trade agreements.

The total value of imported goods coming under the influence of the trade agreement program is about $518,000,000. It is around this segment of the nation's imports that the big fight will be waged.

* * *

May Cut Tariff Rates.

UNDER the trade agreement program and accompanying laws, the president is authorized to cut tariff rates as much as 50 per cent in order to win corresponding concessions in other countries for our exports. The cuts have ranged from a trifling two or three per cent to the full 50 per cent limit.

On the $518,000,000 worth of goods affected by the agreements, the total duty under the old rates was $291,000,000. Trade agreement concessions reduced this to $179,000,000, a cut of more than one third.

The above figures indicate that the average of the old tariff on the one-third of goods affected by the trade agreements was 56 per cent. These old rates for the most part were set by the Smoot-Hawley act. The trade agreements act, coming in 1934, four years later, has cut this tariff rate down to 34 per cent average.

Of course these are blanket averages. The individual cuts range up and down from that. Here is a sample. Agricultural items affected by the trade agreements act paid an average 30 per cent under the old rates, and have been cut to 18 per cent under the new. That is a cut of 12 points, or about 40 per cent.

Not all these cuts were made in any one trade agreement. In each agreement special reductions were made to obtain desired concessions from the other party. However, each reduction when made to one nation became automatically effective with three dozen or more other nations with which the United States is on "most favored nation" terms. That term simply means that we will give other nations as good terms as we give any one nation, provided these other nations do as well for us.

* * *

Barriers Go Down.

GERMANY is the principal nation which does not come in under this bracket with us. So the broad picture is that our tariff barriers have been sharply cut, but by agreement one at a time with the bulk of our foreign customers they will give us reciprocal benefits in trade with them.

What has happened in the five years since the trade agreement program was enacted is that the country has been given something akin to an old-time Democratic tariff act. Farmers and others have protested from time to time. The state department defends its action as a necessary measure to break down trade barriers.

The Truth About Motherhood.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

NO TERM infuriates me more than that revered slogan—"AMERICAN MOTHERHOOD."

I am a mother. I am more grateful for that experience than for anything else in my life. I firmly believe that no profession can possibly give the average woman such pleasure, power and peace as motherhood—or such a proud position in her world, provided she makes good.

Yet I am convinced that most of the tributes paid to motherhood are pernicious bunk—and that motherhood, itself, is being increasingly used as a vicious racket.

Why this wild, indiscriminate praise for mothers, per se? It is no unique achievement to be a mother. It is a painful process, but rarely deserving of the wreaths it gets.

The simple fact is that few of us decide to be mothers. We do not walk, voluntarily, into the jaws of death. We are not heroic adventurers, self-sacrificing martyrs. We are human beings, warm with life, and motherhood is part of the process—frequently a most unwelcome part.

Moreover, to a real woman, motherhood is worth any price she may have to pay for it. Never yet did you hear a real mother whining about "all she had suffered" and expecting medals. It's only the quitters, parasites and racketeers who try to get extra dividends on something which should be its own reward.

Moreover, it does not follow that a mother is, necessarily, a prize exhibit—or even a desirable citizen. The birth ordeal does not automatically equip a woman with qualities to which she has hitherto been a stranger. It does not add one whit to her intelligence or spirituality.

A mother must achieve character by her own exertions, exactly as other human beings achieve it. It is not thrust upon her. And it is cockeyed nonsense to assume that a woman is more tender, honest, brave, fair, generous, intelligent and reliable, merely because she is a mother.

Yet that is the general assumption—and no one is surer of it than Mama herself. As a spinster she may have been stupid, silly, selfish, lazy, bad-tempered and generally ornery. But once let her have a baby and she considers herself endowed with super-human wisdom and all the virtues.

This is particularly true in the United States. We American women possess amazing energy and ambition. We are all rarin' to go. But opportunity for adventure is still limited. So, while we're waiting for other worlds to conquer, we practice up on the Dear Ones At Home—and start our campaign by teaching little Jimmy and Jessie that Mama-Can-Do-No-Wrong.

Which mightn't be so bad, if Mama were willing to concede a few points to Dad. But nothing doing! She may be honestly devoted to Dad—a tender wife, a wise partner, a grand companion. But, when it comes to being a parent nothing can convince her that the Hand Which Rocks the Cradle doesn't have a million times tougher deal that the Fist Which Brings Home the Bacon. So, while the Old Man, as a husband, may get a little credit, as a Father he doesn't even have a look-in.

No, it isn't funny. To the contrary, it's probably one of the major tragedies of history. For something has certainly happened to our American males—and it's my guess that it's their Mamas.

Be that as it may, the power of American Mothers is rapidly being turned into one of our worst rackets. Males must win their power by various achievements. A female need only become a mother. Forthwith, every clubwoman on earth is her belligerent backer.

As to what a Voting Mama can do to Poor Papa in court—well, no insult intended, Judge, but you know how it is yourself!

All of which would seem to prove that we're sitting pretty, sisters. But don't be too sure! We mothers have had a lot of halos handed us in days gone by—and, taking us by and large, deserved most of them.

BUT WHEN WE START TURNING HALOS INTO BRASS KNUCKLES — THAT'S SOMETHING ELSE!

Victories of Peace.

Sir Frederick Banting of Toronto was overseas three years in the World war and was decorated for bravery. After he returned to civilian life and the practice of medicine, he discovered insulin. This has been one of the greatest achievements in the long history of the fight of science against disease. In the United States alone it is estimated there are two million diabetics living today who would have been dead if it had not been for this great remedy.

Now Dr. Banting has returned to the army to serve in the present war.

History probably will little note the valor of Dr. Banting in the last war or any deeds of the present conflict. But as long as civilization keeps fighting human misery, his work in the laboratory in time of peace will be remembered.

The greatest victories are the conquests of peace. The career of Sir Frederick Banting proves this.—Toledo Blade.

Sulfapyridine In Pneumonia Cases.

—By DR. CLENDENING

AS in former years, the greatest amount of research and the greatest amount of progress in the whole field of medicine in 1939 has been in infectious diseases, and the most hopeful work has been done this year in the treatment of pneumonia. This is due to the application of the drug, sulfapyridine.

Sulfapyridine is a dye. For many years it has been known that dyes of various kinds are selective in their action in that they will kill germs in the blood stream without injuring the blood or the tissues. This is the basis of the "magic bullet" of Ehrlich—salvorsan, which has an affinity for the spirochaeta of syphilis but does not harm the tissues of the body and, therefore, by its administration we are able to get rid of the germ and leave the body intact. It is a kind of chemical surgery. Dyes which have been used along the same lines include mercurochrome and gentian violet. None of them, however, has the advantages of sulfapyridine.

Given By Mouth.

In the first place, sulfapyridine can be given by mouth, whereas mercurochrome has to be given by vein. It kills an enormous range of germs. It has been used successfully in pneumonia, meningitis, scarlet fever, mumps, kidney infection, bacterial endocarditis, iritis, congenital blindness, and, indeed, is being applied to practically any general infection.

I have not seen any report of its application to localized infections such as carbuncles or boils, or osteomyelitis, but I suggest this as a possible development.

With the use of sulfapyridine, the fall of temperature to normal within 24 to 36 hours occurs in a large proportion of pneumonia cases. A fall in temperature is accompanied by improvement in the patient's general condition, and after that the consolidation in the lung clears up gradually.

It has some disagreeable by-effects because it produces nausea and vomiting in about two-thirds of the cases, and occasionally a skin eruption, but these are not serious. All powerful drugs have some disagreeable by-effects.

The Nobel prize goes to Prof. Gerhard Dogmagk for his invention and discovery of sulfapyridine. He was born in Lagow, Germany, in 1895. He was professor of pathology at the University of Greifswald, after which he associated himself with the Institute of Experimental Pathology of the I. G. Dye Works in Elberfeld.

Progress in other contagious diseases includes the following:

Control of scarlet fever by active immunization with the toxine. This has been proved repeatedly by the immunization of pupil nurses before they go on duty in scarlet fever wards.

Severe epidemics of diphtheria have occurred in Europe, England and South America, of the malignant type. Where antitoxin was available, it was found that it controlled the malignant type as well as it did the ordinary type.

In whooping cough, the use of the pertussis vaccine has been very much more succesful in the past two or three years. Up to 1931 it showed little improvement, but since then it has been very valuable.

The prevention of measles by human placental immune globulin is being studied.

No progress has been made in infantile paralysis.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The uncensored reports which the state, war and navy departments are getting from the Finnish front bear out newspaper dispatches that the Finns are putting up a marvelous resistance and have pushed the Russians back on almost all fronts.

Finnish morale is reported high, both as to troops and the Finnish people. On the other hand, the Soviets show a weaknes of staff work, plus poor preparedness. Red troops have not been at all ready for such cold weather.

With the help of this weather and the supplies the Finns already have on hand or promised, they probably can hold out until February, after which they will need large quantities of ammunition.

Army vs. Navy.

OF ALL the bitter battles that have been fought between the U. S. army and the U. S. navy, none has been more vitriolic than the quarrel on whether the navy should be permitted to fly over the land and the army permitted to fly over the sea.

This row has now entered a unique and most confidential development—a development which old-timers can scarcely believe. In fact, Admiral William A. Moffet, flying naval hero who died in the wreck of the dirigible Akron, would turn over in his grave if he knew what was happening.

For today army planes are flying 300 miles out to sea to help the navy patrol the Pan-American neutrality zone. And believe it or not, the navy has raised no objections!

To get the significance of this you have to go back to the days when the submarine first was invented, at which time Major General Arthur Murray, chief of artillery and proud of his outfit, demanded that the coast artillery take over all submarines. His theory was that the army was charged with protecting the coasts of the United States and submarines were only for coastal protection.

Naturally the navy kicked like a steer and kept its submarines. But the fight was renewed when General William Mitchell, stormy petrel of the air corps, asked congress to limit the navy's duties entirely to the sea and permit no naval planes to operate ashore.

* * *

Army Bombing Fiasco.

THERE was not the vaguest thought at that time that the army might ever go to sea. That came about ten years later; during the Hoover administration, when the army arranged to show its ability to protect the coast of the U. S. A. by bombing the Mount Shasta, an old hulk set adrift by the shipping board 75 miles off the Virginia Capes.

But a crack army squadron, led by Major Herbert A. Dargue, got lost and did not even sight the Mount Shasta. On the second trip, they sighted the boat, but dropped all their bombs without a single hit. On the third trip they finally scored one hit in the water alongside, but the coast guard had to come in and sink the defenseless vessel.

Peals of laughter went up from the navy. To bomb a defenseless freighter, without armor plate, without anti-aircraft guns, and without protecting airplanes, the navy remarked, was like shooting crippled ducks from a boat.

This display came during a bitter row over the right of the navy to establish land bases, and to fly planes with regular landing gear rather than pontoons. The navy claimed land planes were necessary to operate on the top of airplane carriers. But the army objected so vigorously that Mr. Hoover submitted the question to his bureau of the budget, then to the bureau of efficiency, and finally to the attorney general.

* * *

The Navy's Bailiwick.

THOSE were the days when Washington had nothing much to do but argue about things like this. However, the argument continued even up to last year, when Colonel Robert Olds, ace army pilot, proposed to take one of the army's flying fortresses on a secret hop to Bermuda. Immediately the navy raised such objection to his leaving the shores of the United States that the flight was canceled, and an order issued against the army's flying more than 100 miles out to sea.

The sea was the navy's bailiwick, the admirals stated, and army planes should keep off. Acting Secretary Edison opposed the admirals, argued that it made no difference whether the army or the navy fought off an air raid on New York just so New York was protected. The admirals won their point just the same.

Now, however, the army is completely victorious. With most naval planes on the west coast or Hawaii, the navy has had to turn to the army for help in policing the Atlantic neutrality zone. Army planes are flying not 100 miles, but 300 miles out to sea—over the sacred bailiwick of the navy.

And do the army pilots grin!

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE MORNING was very cold. The ground was frozen as hard as stone. A white glaze of frost covered the meadow grass, the roadside brush, and old rail fences. Although the sun shone, the westward bank of drifted snow along the road showed no sign of moisture.

At the edge of town, I saw a boy of about ten delivering posters to each house. He carried them in a bag such as newsboys use, with a strap across his left shoulder. I saw him dance about the sidewalk with his hands shoved into his pants pockets. The shoes he wore were out at the toes and down at the heels, and bloody marks were on the pavement where he danced to keep warm. His narrow pointed face was ruddy from the raw north wind. I drove close and asked him in.

"Thank you," he said. "I'm awful cold."

I drew a blanket from a rear of the car and wrapped it around his dangling feet and shivering body. "It seems nice and warm in here," he said. "Nobody hardly ever asks me to ride. I hain't had no breakfast yet, but a guy will give me 50 cents when I see him down town. I had 500 bills but there's only 10 left. I did part of 'em yesterday. I like to finish a job done, but this time I mighta froze. I'm sure glad you came along.

"Mom works, but she's been sick two weeks now. I gather coal every day along the tracks down near us. I've got a big pile, enough to last two weeks as cold as this or colder. Mom smiled when I helped her come to the door and look. This 50 cents will get our breakfast and dinner and maybe then I'll find more work. Mom says as long as we can get along this way we won't ask for no help. She's gettin' better and when I go back to school she'll be workin'.

"Dad died three years ago. Before that we had plenty of everything . . . big Christmases with trees and everything. It ain't that way no more, but I've got a surprise for Mom, only it'll be a day late. Bill the grocery man says I can have his tree the day after Christmas, with all the trimmin's. I'll sneak it in and stand it by Mom's bed when she's sleepin'. Mom says we're goin' to fare better when I get bigger, and I'm going to try to make it happen."

As he left the car, I saw where half of the sole on one of his shoes was gone.

"Thank you," he said. "I'm warm now."

TURKISH QUAKE TOLL ESTIMATE SET AT 42,000

Fresh Tremors Terrorize Area Already Stricken; Many Cities Demolished.

as they attempted to escape from flaming buildings. Many who escaped unhurt in their night clothes into the bitter winter night already were seriously ill from exposure.

Authorities prepared for an expected wave of pneumonia and other illnesses.

Scantily clad men, women and children were camping in fields, refusing to return to their homes in fear of new tremblors.

Ordu, Sivas and Amasia were scenes of widespread havoc.

President Ismet Inonu interrupted a tour of the country to rush to the disaster area and take personal charge of the hastily mobilized relief organization. Other members of the government were joining him.

Army units stationed at various centers in the quake area rushed to the communities worst hit to help dig into the ruins for bodies and fight the flames.

Parliament in an emergency session set up a commission to make a world-wide appeal for funds.

Destruction had coursed rampant from populous coastal centers to villages nestled in the mountains fronting the Black sea.

Some of the stricken towns still bore the scars of more than a week of earth tremors in April 1938, and subsequent shocks in September and November, this year. Some 800 lives were lost in the April, 1938, disaster. The earthquake history of Anatolia is long.

Districts Hardest Hit.

The districts of Erzincan and Kemah were hardest hit in the latest disaster. The Black sea towns of Samson and Ordu were pictured as vistas of shattered buildings in the reports filtering through to Ankara. Samsun, about 200 miles northeast of Ankara, has a population of 33,000.

Another large city reported heavily damaged is Sivas, about 200 lies east of Ankara, nestling in the hollow of two mountain ranges near the head of the Kizil Irmak river. It has a population of 34,000.

Fear-stricken townspeople fled their tumbled homes and spent the night in open fields, numbed by the north winds across the Baltic from the Russian steppes.

The flaring torches of the rescue parties provided ghastly illumination for the scenes of devastation. Railway tracks and bridges were twisted and broken. Water mains and power lines in the more populous places were snapped Fear-maddened cattle stampeded in farming communities.

The first of yesterday morning's four shocks came at 2 a. m. (7 p. m., Tuesday E.S.T.) the last quivering of the earth from the final quake was recorded at 5 a. m.

Anatolia is another name for Asia Minor, western peninsula of Asia between the Black and Mediterranean seas, separated from Europe by the Straits of the Bosporus and Dardanelles and the sea of Marmara.

The structure of the land is volcanic. Mountain ranges border Anatolia and the interior consists of a series of plateaus with bare steppes, salt plains marshes and lakes. Anatolia's area is 193,590 square miles; its population some 9,000,000.

pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee was legal.

Argentina thus rejected Germany's protest against the internment. Germany had claimed that the Graf Spee survivors were "distressed seamen" and hence immune to internment under international law.

The Argentine reply contended that since there was "no express disposition, general principles of international law were applied" The Nazi note had taken the view that the provision of the Hague convention of 1907 were not applicable to the seamen because they were brought here by an Argentine vessel from Montevideo where they had blown up their ship Dec. 17.

Argentina cited article 10 of the Geneva convention of 1906, which said that "in case belligerent wounded or distressed seamen are rescued by a neutral warship, efforts must be made as quickly as possible to assure that they will not again take part in war operations."

The drivers of two cars were slightly injured in an accident four miles south of Lexington about 7:30 p. m. Wednesday. The injured were H. R. Critchfield, 78 Arthur avenue, Mansfield, and William E. Taylor, 76, of Sidney. Taylor told patrolmen that his vision was obscured by ice on the windshield.

At least nine other minor accidents were reported to patrolmen last night as cars skidded on icy highways and collided with cars, telephone poles and trees. No one was hurt in the mishaps.

The rain which followed the snow last night was heavier in southern and central Ohio than in the Mansfield area where a light drizzle froze on windshields and pavements.

At Marion, a car skidded into the path of a freight train, fatally injuring Miss Patricia Doyle, 31, desk girl at Hotel Harding in Marion. Her father is a watchman at a crossing near where the accident occurred, but he was not on duty.

Nick Carter Revived.

Nick Carter, the super-sleuth who thrilled kids of a half century ago with his amazing detecting exploits, is revived in the movies with Walter Pidgeon, as the invincible Nick. But of course it is little more than a name, for this Nick Carter rides in airplanes and in autos, of which the original detective knew nothing. Rita Johnson appears with Pidgeon in "Nick Carter, Master Detective," at the Madison. Richard Dix and Gail Patrick in "Reno" is the second film.

Daughter of His Own.

Claude Rains, in "Four Wives," plays the father of four grown daughters, all of whom marry and have children of their own, but in real life he is the father of a two-year-old baby girl, Jennifer Rains. The actor usually makes up to appear much older than he is. "Four Wives," with Rosemary, Priscilla and Lola Lane and Gale Page, will be shown at the Ohio for the last time tomorrow.

Modern Housing Dooms New York Chinatown

Removal of Manhattan's crumbling Chinatown, with its narrow, crowded and crooked little streets, to make way for a giant $15,000,000 housing development of 3,500 rooms, is under consideration. Plan calls for demolition of another slum area, upon which would be constructed a new China Village. Left, is picturesque but unsanitary Mott street, during a typical Chinese funeral. Diagram, top, right, shows plan of the new development. Lower, right, is one of New York's new housing projects.

"Cafe Society."

Fred MacMurray and Madeliene Carroll made two pictures together this year and both were high in entertainment value. They were "Cafe Society" and "Honeymoon in Bali." The former picture, which tells of the romance of a down-to-earth newspaperman and a spoiled society girl, heads the Majestic bill for Friday and Saturday. The second attraction is a Fred Scott Western, "Code of The Fearless."

"Bad Lands" at Park.

Ten men start out to brave unknown dangers as they band together to trail the murderer of a beautiful Spanish girl in the Southwest, and before the quest has ended every man, except the sheriff, has met death in the desert. The picture is starkly real and has a cast of notable character-players. "Bad Lands" is a Park theater feature for Friday and Saturday. Also scheduled is "Inside Information," with June Lang, Dick Foran, Mary Carlisle and Harry Carey.

The California Flood.

The floods which covered the lowlands of California last spring is the theme of "Rovin Tumbleweeds" which brings Gene Autry to the Ritz today for a three-day showing. Ranchers are shown abandoning their farms and in the Red Cross refugee stations, the singing cowboy entertains with his git-tar and his songs. "Kid Nightingale," with John Payne and Jane Wyman is also on the bill.

'MUSH' CENSUS NOW UNDERWAY

Your Uncle Sam Counts Chilled Alaskan Noses Before Snow Melts.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — In chill Alaska, they're taking the census this winter—and it's no job for a home-loving man.

The nose-counters of the north country are scattering across snow and ice—mushing over frozen lakes by dogsled, plodding lonely mountain slopes on snowshoes—to catch the hunters and fishers at home.

And after they get their man—"What's your name, please?"

"My name is Attu," the Eskimo tells the census enumerator, "but to the white man I am known as Jim Smith." Take your choice.

Modern Alaska is no longer the gold-crazed pioneer settlement that Robert W. Service wrote about. In the southern part, cities as populous as Annapolis, Md., or East Aurora, N. Y., boast sturdy factories and busy markets.

But up north, men live alone or cluster together in small native settlements. They follow the fishing and trapping crafts their fathers taught them. Only an occasional trader or Indian service nurse brings word of the outside world.

Strange, that in this bleak north country the census-taker should come knock-knocking at the door in the dead of winter. In "the States," where temperatures seldom go below zero, the man with the questions to ask calls in summer.

But Harry Hopkins' census bureau says the winter weather is better for the job in Alaska. Railroads and automobiles do not penetrate the back-country regions. Men travel there by dogsled or by plane.

In winter, dogsleds zip over frozen land that is dangerous marsh in summer. And ever level snow-covered space is a landing-field for airplanes on ski-like runners.

RING-TAILS CAUGHT

KING CITY, Cal. —(U.P.)— Donald Hood, federal forest outlook at Cone Peak, recently mussed up the federal statistics on ring-tailed cats. The government had announced there were only 1,700 ring-tailed cats out of captivity in California. Then he captured two of the cats. He says the statistics should now be corrected to read 1,698.

Traction Man Never Thought Medicine Could Help So Much

Feels so much better since taking Vendol and getting relief from constipation, can now eat most anything without having sour stomach, acid dyspepsia, gas cramps, and other troubles.

MR. WILLIBER MOOMEY

"I've gone through so much suffering from troubles in my stomach and other symptoms brought on by constipation, and had been disappointed so many times seeking relief, that I didn't really believe a medicine could possibly do as much good as Vendol has done for me," says Mr. Williber Moomey, of 887 South Avenue, Toledo, Ohio, a reliable and highly esteemed employe of the Community Traction Co.

"In this constipated condition I hardly knew what it was to eat a meal without suffering soon afterwards from sour stomach, acid dyspepsia, cramps, and a choking feeling in my throat. Often I'd rift up little bits of undigested food and a hot, sour liquid rise up in my throat and sometimes my clothes would feel tight from the gas in my stomach.

"I had pains in the muscles of my arms, shoulders, back, and down through my limbs that were really awful at times.

"I read a lot about how Vendol was helping people around here, and I know several who had taken it and said it was fine, so I decided to try it, along with the Vendol laxative tablets, and I'm happy that I did, as it is about the best medicine I ever tried.

"Vendol gave grand relief from my constipation; then it seemed my other troubles grew less, so I kept taking Vendol and the tablets, and now I enjoy my meals like I should without going through all that discomfort and suffering as I did before. I feel fine all the time and never miss a chance to advise my friends to take Vendol."

Make up your mind now to begin taking Vendol and see for yourself what it will do. Come to Central Drug Store, Cor. Main & Fourth Sts., ask for me, the Vendol Man, and I'll explain all about my grand medicine and tell you honestly what you may expect it to do for you. Come today if possible.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

There was no use delaying the issue, and I went directly to the point.

"Can you guarantee to keep Princess Olina constantly in your company this morning for a half hour following her dressing and meeting you?" I asked.

She made a wry little grimace.

"If she's in the same form she's been manifesting the last few days," she said. But do you mean I'm to make the advances this morning?"

"I mean exactly that," I told her. "It is necessary that I interview Queen Olga this morning, and it is equally necessary that her daughter not only be out of earshot, but shut out from all knowledge that the queen and I are talking to each other. Can you arrange to get Olina out of the house within the next hour, and keep her there until I come strolling out and pass the time of day with you?"

"I wish all my tasks were as easy as this one," Mary said. "As it happens, I ran deah Olina ragged on the tennis court yesterday, and she told me last night that she wanted her revenge this morning. So all I have to do is to awaken her and dare her to come out and play. But that will awaken her mother, too."

"That's what I want," I said. 'And you'll have to go about your task at once. I happen to know that Olina has an appointment with Philip Veritzen at half after ten this morning, so you won't be able to keep her playing after that hour."

"She'll be ready to call it a day long before then," she said, and I knew it was no idle boast she was uttering, for Mary is family tennis champion. "But Auntie Madge!"—her eyes were suddenly troubled—"Why does she want to talk to Father Veritzen this morning? I'll bet she's trying to have that rehearsal staged for today."

"I don't know what she's trying," I said a little grimly, "but I know she has no chance of succeeding. There will be no rehearsal until one-thirty tomorrow."

She drew a long sigh of relief and turned toward the door.

"I'll just go over and awaken Olina, invite her very sweetly to have breakfast with me, and promise her a tennis revenge. And when I get her on the way outdoors, I'll stop in here for a second on some pretext, so you'll know she's going to be safely tethered to the tennis court."

"I knew I could count on you," I told her gratefully. As she put her hand upon the doorknob I gave her a hurried parting admonition.

"I need not warn you that you know nothing of any interview between Queen Olga and me," I said, "and also that you must be much surprised to see your father-in-law."

"I'll remember," she promised with a gay wave of her hand. And then she was gone and I sat down to marshall my thoughts for my coming interview with Queen Olga.

I was pacing the floor frantically when Mary's knock sounded on the door. I pulled myself together and forced a casual smile to my lips as I opened it to see Mary and Olina in tennis attire with their racquets in their hands.

"Dear Mrs. Graham," Olina said prettily. "Would you mind going over to see Maman? She told me she wanted to see you very much, and she does not feel up to getting dressed just yet."

Miserliness Dreaded Disease

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Did you happen to read in the papers the other day about the woman of 58 who sued her husband for maintenance? The man proved to be something of a museum piece in the way of tightwads.

He had an income of about $6000 a year. He gave his wife about $20.00 a week for all household expenses, and if he dined out he docked her for the meals. She had put up with this bitter economy, but told the judge that she couldn't stand it another day.

The judge granted her maintainence of $175 a month, which I fear she may find hard to collect. It's no longer easy to collect maintenance or alimony, and several states have crossed it off their statute laws entirely.

That lady needn't worry about getting a job. Anyone able to keep house as well as she did on $20.00 a week is in the Alexander Hamilton class of financiers. The tightwad husband made no complaint of her housekeeping, the meals she served, the terrific hair-splitting she exercised to pay utility bills, the hourly scrimping was all to his taste.

Passionately enarmored of saving, he continued to dock his wife every time he spent a cent outside of pinch-penny house.

How did she stand it? Like the constant dripping of water on rock destroys it, love, respect and endurance had long since worn away The power to endure seemed all she was able to salvage from life. And after a while that went too. A man who loves money better than he does his wife is a subject for the psychiatrist.

With a family eking out an existence on a starvation wage, or no wage at all, any decent woman will help fifty-fifty, and even farther. She will not grudge economizing to the last cent, and if it's possible for her to earn even a little, she will work for her family uncomplainingly.

But there is no reason why a woman should add to her husband's miserliness when he is well able to provide. She is only making easier one of the most unlovely of human qualities. Carried to the limit, your thirty-third degree miser has often been found starved to death with his filthy rags full of hoarded money.

Miserliness is a jealous mistress. Once given the whiphand, the joy of saving seems to exceed all other delights. If misers save for the purpose of leaving a monument to their own egoism, their scrimping is understandable. The joy of seeing their names on a public building, or connected with some institution, outweighs every other consideration and is for the good of all. But the scrimper and saver who is found dead of starvation, in filthy rags and with enough to keep him in comfort, is a victim of insanity.

It's hard to understand why the wives of well-to-do misers continue to minister to this passion of niggardliness. And why a woman, who is a past mistress of economy, doesn't get herself a job.

She might at least let the kitchen fire go out, and quit the endless round of shopping from one store to another to save a penny here and there.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

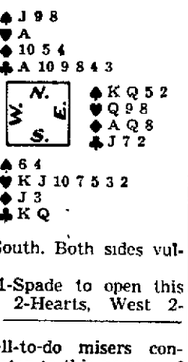
By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

YOU KNOW, HE DOESN'T

THERE ARE always facts about your own hand which nobody at the table knows except yourself, regardless of what you have told by your bidding or play. You may be able to see a sure defense against the opponents' contract which your partner cannot be expected to guess. To put that plan in operation sometimes necessitates your overtaking your partner's honor and thereby getting in command of the situation.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

East bid 1-Spade to open this deal, South 2-Hearts, West 2-Spades, North 3-Clubs, East 3-Spades and then everybody made what seemed like a conservative pass.

As soon as South led the club king, North took stock Deciding to go for heart ruffs, he plumped his club ace on his partner's king, laid down the heart ace, and returned the club 3 to the queen. South promptly cashed his heart king, then led the jack. If the declarer ruffed this low in the dummy, the Jack could overruff it at once. He trumped with the ace, but that built up the setting trick for North.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, December 29.

Mixed influences, astrologically speaking, predominate on this day. There may be much liveliness and stimulated action, probably in a decisive effort to break up old obstructions and congested conditions. The effort, under the impetus of keen mentality and sharp resources and intuitions, may be best directed toward attacking these static situations to make way for constructive endeavor on entirely new and progressive lines. There may be trivial tests and vexatious opposition. Unexpected change of plans, interests and environs is likely.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year in which a definite effort may be made to break up old crystallizations and obstacles, making way for an entirely new setup, with more progressive objectives and fresh interests While this endeavor entails many petty vexations and brisk opposition, the mentality will be so keen, resourceful and inspired that it will successfully combat difficulties and advance objectives toward desired goals. All pertaining to writings or publishing is particularly fortified.

A child born on this day may be exceedingly versatile, alert, studious and deep, despite certain flashy or erratic tendencies.

Probe Flood Of Sabotage Reports In U. S. Industry

U. S. OFFICIALS BUSY IN WAVE OF VANDALISM

500 Complaints Received Every 24 Hours; Cases in Auto Plants Solved.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—A new wave of sabotage and espionage complaints, totaling more than 500 every 24 hours and detailing the wanton methods being used by the saboteurs, is rolling in on federal agencies, it was learned today.

The daily average of complaints received by the Department of Justice is 215; a somewhat larger number reach the army and navy each day, and the treasury department gets at least a dozen.

Exact figures were not obtainable at the war and navy departments, because many of the complaints are handled in the field by corps area offices, and an exact tabulation is not made.

Attorney General Frank Murphy yesterday revealed in Detroit that sabotage has been discovered in automobile manufacturing plants there, and that the saboteurs are known and will be jailed.

Saboteurs, officials revealed, in the main are employing the same methods they used during World war days.

These include (1) creation of dissension among workers, resulting in "slow-ups" and inefficient work; (2) setting of fires and causing explosions; (3) altering blueprints and specifications; and (4) failing to install engine parts properly, so the motors will break down in operation.

Elude Inspectors.

At least one large fire and several motor failures have been traced directly to saboteurs, it was learned.

Sabotage on motors—airplane, automobile or machinery — requires work clever enough to elude the watchful eyes of inspection forces, which have been substantially increased since repeal of the U. S. embargo on arms sales, officials explained.

One of the most successful methods of this type of tampering, they disclosed, comprises punching a small hole in an oil line and plugging it with wax. When the engine is placed in operation and becomes hot, the wax melts, the oil escapes, and the motor "burns up."

A large number of the complaints, it was revealed, prove upon investigation to be based on personal grudges, and disclose no evidence of sabotage or espionage.

TAXI KILLS SLEDDERS

CINCINNATI—(AP)—A bobsled towed behind an automobile swerved into the path of a taxicab last night killing Francis Noe, 20, and Lawrence Voss, 19.

A communique said the sinkings were achieved by the patrol boat Commandant Dub and by the destroyers Sirocco and La Railleuse with the aid of a naval airplane.

Rawson Honored By Gyro Club at Christmas Party

A combination Christmas party and farewell to Earl B. Rawson, retiring secretary, was staged at the Susie Janis home last night by the Mansfield Gyro club.

Rawson, a charter member of the club, which was organized here in 1915, leaves Mansfield for Cleveland to assume new duties with the American Telephone and Telegraph company on Jan. 2.

A feature of the evening was a talk on "Unsung Heroes," by Noel Michell, Akron, who outlined the accomplishments of various persons whose careers have furthered the advance of civilization.

Among his "Unsung Heroes" Michell listed Dr. Robert Koch, German scientist who led the way for the discovery of the tuberculosis germ; Margaret Sanger, who made available throughout the civilized world vital information about birth control; Robert Ingersoll, noted philisopher and agnostic, who was, Michell declared, a "great Christian" and 50 years ahead of his time, and several others.

After his talk, Rawson was presented with an electric clock by the club, while Mrs. Rawson received a bouquet of 15 roses, one for every year her husband has been a Gyro club member. The presentations were made by R. D. Lindsay, club president.

Bridge, bingo and other diversions concluded the evening.

AERO CHAPTER CALLS FOR MORE APPLICANTS FOR PILOT TRAINING

The Mansfield chapter of the National Aeronautical Association sponsoring the Civil Aeronautics Authority pilot training program announced today that it needed 22 additional applicants from this district to participate in the program.

Norman Kann, president of the association, said that men and women between the ages of 18 and 25 years from Mansfield, Shelby, Plymouth, Galion, Crestline and Ashland were eligible to compete for the flight training scholarships.

Applications for the government's course can be obtained at the Mansfield municipal airport.

Chamber of Commerce, American Abrasive company at Galion, and the Autocall company at Shelby.

Kann said that 28 applications already have been received, including three young women who expect to participate in the non-college training course which is expected to start Jan. 15.

Mansfield is one of the three cities in Ohio which has been selected for training centers. Cleveland and Toledo are the other two.

Ground school classes which are being organized by J. R. Harrington airport manager, selected as instructor here will consist of 72 hours in the history of aviation, Civil Air regulations, air navigation, meterology, parachutes, air craft and theory of flight, engines, instruments and radio. Textbooks will be the same as those now in use in the civilian pilot training program in the various colleges throughout the country.

The course will be given over a period of 12 weeks after which a competitive examination will be held by the CAA to select the 10 highest ranking students for flight training scholarships.

Flight training will begin at the completion of the ground school training and will last throughout the summer, culminating in from 35 to 50 hours of actual flying which will be sufficient for the students to obtain private pilot licenses.

Kann pointed out that from among the various women applicants that attend the ground course, the highest ranking girl student will be awarded a flying scholarship.

He also stressed that there was no connection between the CAA's flight training and Army and Navy, pointing out that it was being conducted for the development of civilian aviation.

A reduction of application fee also was announced, which requires each applicant to pay $10 for their ground school training including the necessary textbooks.

'Football on Way Out,' Says Chicagoan.

DENVER—(AP)—"Big-time intercollegiate football is on the way out," is the opinion of Dr. Arthur H. Compton, University of Chicago physicist and one-time player at Wooster (O.) college. "I think college football has been over-professionalized for the last 10 years," he said in an interview. "When people in Chicago want to see good football now, they go to a pro game."

IN THE RUHL BOOK

By OSCAR RUHL,
News-Journal Sports Editor.

THE "forgotten men" of college football are members of the University of Chicago's freshmen squad.

When Chicago announced its withdrawal from intercollegiate football competition last week, it not only startled midwestern gridiron followers, but stranded the most promising frosh squad to invade the midway in years.

It was generally known in Chicago last fall that the freshmen took the varsity into camp anytime it pleased, and it also was no secret that many of the young gridders were interested as much in football as they were in study.

There is a possibility that the majority of these freshmen may want to transfer to continue their grid careers, but it is a rule in the Big Ten, and it is practiced in other schools too, that a student must have a year's residence before he is eligible for varsity football.

The rule should be temporarily discarded for these young men, and they should be permitted to enter any school they wish without effecting their eligibility.

They have earned varsity eligibility because of the time they spent at Chicago.

* * *

It was not their fault that Chicago was forced to abandon football, and there is no reason why they should be penalized a year of competition because of the school's gridiron policy.

Wonder If Yost Remembers Grange?

FIELDING H. YOST University of Michigan athletic director, says the fastest three athletes that he ever saw were Frank Gotch, the undisputed and last legitimate heavyweight wrestling champion; James J. Corbett, one-time heavyweight boxing champion, and Joe Louis, current titleholder.

Yost saw Gotch wrestle several times and he attended the Corbett-Jeffries fight. He never watched Louis fight except on the motion picture screen, but he got a comprehensive idea of his speed and skill.

By "fast" Yost means that Gotch, Corbett and Louis had the quickest reactions of all athletes, amateur and professional, that he's ever seen and the bulk of their success was owning these reactions.

* * *

Wonder whether Yost remembers that fall afternoon about 15 years ago when a young iceman named Red Grange scored something like four touchdowns in a few minutes against Michigan?

DeCorrevont 'Tops' Says Elmer Layden.

ELMER LAYDEN, Notre Dame coach, in rare form, had some snappy comebacks to several questions asked by A-P Sports Writer Fritz Howell on a speaking engagement which took him to Columbus recently. Here's the conversation:

Q—Who were the best backs you saw last season?

A—Lansdell of South California and DeCorrevont of Northwestern. This hoarseness of mine was caused by the heavy breeze they stirred up running past our bench for long gains.

Q—What has caused the big decrease in drop-kicking the last few years?

A—Well, the ball is more pointed now, making the kick more difficult. The rule makers used to consider the kicker when defining the ball, but now they consider only the southwest.

Q—Just what is this "Notre Dame system" we hear so much about?

A—Well, last season our system seemed to be to receive the pass from center and then fumble.

Q—How's the Notre Dame outlook for next year? What will you need most?

A—The outlook's about the same as it was for last season, and our greatest need will be the same—a scoring play.

Q—What was the biggest thrill you had last season?

A—One of my tackles gave me that. He was big, strong and fast, but not too quick above his shoulders, and he didn't exert himself much in the game. So I got him up to my office one day for a pep talk. I rose to oratorical heights as I smacked one fist into the other hand and told him how he had to hit 'em hard and often out there. Finally I stopped and looked him in the eyes, both of which were shining. I thought I had him, and then he spoke: "Gee, coach, that's the way I like to hear you go." So I turned back to my desk work, very much encouraged.

FIND SCORING THREAT IN N. Y. U. STAR'S TOE

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—Coaches Andy Kerr and Bernie Bierman, grooming an all-East team for the Shrine's East-West charity football game here New Year's day, believe they've found a real scoring threat in the right toe of Edward Boell, New York university halfback.

Boell's chief talent is drop-kicking, and during a double workout yesterday the 200-pounder split the goal posts 10 out of 14 tries at distances ranging from 20 to 37 yards.

Mephisto Asks For Canadian

Claims He Received 'Raw Deal' in Mt. Vernon.

The Great Mephisto, belated entry in junior-heavyweight mat competition, today asked mat officials for a match with Gil Knutsen of Canada. Mephisto was beaten by Knutsen last week in Mt. Vernon, and is anxious to gain revenge for what he calls "the rawest deal a wrestler ever received."

According to proes accounts of Mephisto's defeat, the Great One had thrown Knutsen out of the ring. An irate fan hurled a chair into the ring, striking Mephisto. Knutsen came through the ropes and pinned him.

* * *

"I know," Mephisto told Matchmaker Nolan yesterday, "that the fans in Mansfield will give me a fair break. I'm sure I can beat Knutsen, for I had him in a bad way up until someone hit me with that chair."

Nolan said today that he would make every effort to land the match, but would have to wire the blond Canuck's handlers in order to learn whether or not the handsome British subject is available at the present time.

Park Baptists' Win Aids Mayflower Five

Defeat First Methodists to Give Congregational Club Clean Grip on First Place.

MAYFLOWER'S defending championship quintet today is all alone on the top berth in the Y. M. C. A. Church Class A basketball league title chase.

The titleholders went into last night's contests on the Y court sharing the lead with First Methodist, but after hostilities were over the latter club dropped into a tie for second place.

Led by Russell, the Mayflower combine tripped St. John's Evangelical, 24 to 39, while the First Methodist team was dropping a thrilling 23 to 22 decision to the Park Avenue Baptist basketballers.

* * *

In the other tussle, Central Methodist chalked up its first win in three starts by turning back the First Lutherans, 30-19.

* * *

While eyes were focused on the Mayflower game, the First Methodist-Baptist affair held a large share of the spotlight.

The Baptist outfit whitewashed its rivals to gain a 10-0 advantage in the opening period. The losers, however, trailing 14-3 at the intermission, suddenly began hitting. The Methodists were still behind, 20-11, when play opened in the final stanza. And, while limiting the Baptist to three points, came within one marker of knotting the score by dumping in 11 points.

* * *

Mayflower encountered trouble from the Evangelicals in the first half, but pulled away after the rest period. The pacemakers were leading, 8-7, in the initial quarter, 17-14 at the half, and 24-16 at the end of the third chapter. Russell tipped in 13 points to pace the winners.

Central Methodist came in with a thrill-packed last quarter rally to topple the First Lutherans. Behind, 19-18, as the clubs went into the final period, the winners stopped the Lutherans cold and outscored them 10-0 to ice the affair. Wiegandt and Smeltzer tallied eight points apiece for the winners.

State Cagers Beaten

Bucks Bow to Kentucky, 36-30, After Leading at Halftime. Scranton Rips Akron.

(By Associated Press)

OHIO college teams fared badly in basketball competition on foreign floors last night, Ohio State losing to Kentucky, 36 to 30, and Akron dropping a 46 to 39 decision to Scranton.

In the state's only home game, Toledo upset Cornell, 45 to 29, for its 10th victory in 11 starts.

* * *

Kentucky beat the Buckeyes at New Orleans in the Sugar Bowl classic before 7,000 fans. The Bucks led at half time, 20 to 19, fell behind early in the second half and then climbed within two points of the Wildcats in the closing minutes.

* * *

The lead changed hands several times in the first half, with State's 18 to 15 lead being the widest margin. Center Bill Sattler, who paced the Bucks with 13 points, dropped in a one-handed field goal just before the first half closed to account for Ohio's intermission edge.

State used 12 players and Kentucky only seven. It was Kentucky's third victory of the season and State's first setback in four games.

* * *

Toledo limited Cornell to three field goals in the first half to amass a 26 to 9 intermission lead. Heavy scoring by Guard Ken Jolly slashed the lead early in the second half, but the easterners never threatened seriously.

* * *

Share Lead In Bike Race

Five Teams Deadlocked in Indoor Whirl.

CLEVELAND —(INS)— Featured by an unprecedented sprint effort on the part of the German bike rider, Ewald Wissel, Cleveland's annual indoor whirl was well into its fourth day today with five teams locked for the lead.

* * *

Wissel, irked by a $5 fine Referee Pat Mulvey slapped on every team for not chasing Jimmy Walthour and Al Crossley, broke one of bicycle racing's unwritten laws and had himself a jamming session all night, finally winding up with his partner, George Shipman, only four laps behind the leaders.

* * *

Wessel battled through the field three times to snare three laps. Although Jules Audy and Cesar Moretti were leading the sprint points, with 422, the teams of Walthour-Crossley, the Peden brothers, Rodman-Thomas, and Bergna-Bollaert were deadlocked on laps.

Worst Drought In History Seen for Mid-West In 1940

LACK OF RAIN TO MAKE 'DUST BOWL' LARGER

Professor Says Indications Point to Ruinous Summer for Nebraska Area.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—Dr. J. E. Weaver, of the University of Nebraska, predicted today the most ruinous drought in history for the middle-western "dust bowl" next summer.

Only heavy rains in the near future will prevent it. If the rains do not come, he said, the dust bowl will be enlarged by hundreds of square miles.

Weaver and Dr. F. W. Albertson, of Kansas State college, surveyed 88 grazing ranges in western Nebraska and Kansas, southwestern South Dakota, eastern Wyoming and Colorado, and the Oklahoma Panhandle. This comprises the region of the so-called dust bowl.

They reported today at the 105th meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The worst sections of the bowl, they reported, were still desert-like, studded with cacti, and "gave no sign of life—in fact life seemed extinct." Last summer's drought damage was the worst since 1934, they said. But only continued rains in greater than normal amounts would prevent next summer's sun doing even greater damage. Recent snows have helped but little since 70 per cent of the region's precipitation occurs in summer.

No Rain Since May.

Western sections of the bowl, they said, had had no rain since last May. In the center of the bowl, dust was found piled in drifts three feet high. They discovered that the short western grasses, which had "moved into" the bowl after the blue steam and other grasses were burned and blown away, had disappeared in many places. In one quarter of the bowl they found that the grass cover was less than one per cent. Russian thistle and cacti had grown up. The range was so worthless than even the jack rabbits had departed.

He was accompanied by Jimmy Jameson, a fellow worker at Westinghouse. They flew to Columbus where they will join five fliers from the Ashland airport and a number of planes from Columbus. Yesterday was the birthday anniversary of Mansfield's most distinguished son. Louis Bromfield was 43 years old, having been born Dec. 27, 1896, at the Bromfield home on West Third street. He will remain in the film capital through January at least and possibly longer. Mrs. Bromfield will leave here Tuesday to join her husband.

SEE CIO BACK SEN. WHEELER

Washington Politicos Believe Labor Group Thinks He's Best for Presidency.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Sen Barton K. Wheeler, D., Mont., an the basis of the best available information, today appears likely to be the recipient of the support for the presidency in 1940 that John L. Lewis and his Congress of Industrial Organizations gave President Roosevelt in 1936.

Assuming that Mr. Roosevelt will not seek a third term, the United Press was informed that CIO leaders, proceeding on the assumption that Mr. Roosevelt will not seek a third term, have looked over the democratic presidential aspirants and decided that Wheeler is the best of the lot—although they are not yet committed to his candidacy.

Another and, from the CIO standpoint, better candidates may enter the race at a future date.

The CIO is already setting up its political machinery for the next presidential election. The United Mine Workers union convention begins Jan. 23 in Columbus and it may give some hint of Lewis' plans. A national convention of the CIO-controlled labor's non-partisan league will follow.

When the miners meet in Columbus, local unions are almost certain to present "third term" resolutions for Mr. Roosevelt. It these are passed over or rejected, it will be significant evidence that the friendship between the president and Lewis has cooled.

OHIO BEAUTY CROWN WINNER HELD AS JAIL BREAK'S FOILED

(By International News Service)

LANCASTER—Seventeen-year-old Nellie Erick, winner of the title "Miss Lancaster" in a beauty contest, was held by juvenile authorities today after she allegedly confessed smuggling hacksaw blades to two youths held in Fairfield county jail on murder charges.

The bizarre plot that also involved the girl's mother was uncovered by sheriff's deputies who discovered that the youths had used the saws to cut a hole in a metal door leading to an outside passage.

According to Sheriff William J. Belhorn, the blades were found in a jail cell occupied by Robert E. Lee, 18, of Norwood, Mass., and William S. Hart, 19, of Middletown, O.

They are accused of slaying Alex Stromstead, tailor at the boys industrial school, during an escape attempt last summer. Belhorn asserted that the plot began when the youths learned that a cell above them was occupied by two women, Mrs. Jennie Erick, 44, the girl's mother, and Alice Leach, who were held on forgery charges.

The youths, the sheriff said, carried on a "mild flirtation" with the women for several days by passing notes through an opening beside a water pipe.

Miss Erick, Belhorn said, became acquainted with the youths while passing their cell en route to visit her mother. On one visit, the sheriff said she told him, Hart gave her one dollar and later her mother instructed her to buy blades with it. She said she gave the blades to her mother, who passed them to the youths, the sheriff asserted.

DALTON DEAD

(By Associated Press)

Dalton, 77-year-old chairman of Youngstown Sheet & Tube company and head of the nation's second-largest iron ore shipping firm, died of broncho-pneumonia. He suffered a stroke a year ago, underwent an emergency appendectomy Dec. 20 and pneumonia developed Christmas day.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at the residence, with Bishop Beverley D. Tucker, head of the Episcopal diocese of Ohio, and Dean Chester B. Emerson, of Trinity Episcopal cathedral, officiating.

FOOD SUPPLIES FOR 6,000 DUE TO BE SHUT OFF

Auditors Attempt to Locate Funds While Jobless Miners Demand Quick Action.

(By Associated Press)

ATHENS, O.—State welfare department auditors were expected today to provide an answer to the question, "where will Athens county obtain money to feed its needy?"

Food orders for 6,252 relief clients were due to expire Friday and county commissioners reported they lacked funds to continue direct relief.

The county officials have appealed to Gov. John W. Bricker for additional state aid, but the governor said before taking action he would await the report this week of auditors who have been checking county finances for a possible source of relief revenue.

Bricker declared $22,000 in surplus utility excise tax funds should be available for relief, but the commissioners said that money already was pledged against a $25,000 debt to grocers who have refused further credit.

Unemployed Athens county miners have demanded quick action to prevent starvation. They said they would ask President Roosevelt to set up army "soup kitchens" here unless the county and state solved the problem.

Commission Chairman Ira Whitemore attributed the increased relief load partly to reduction of WPA rolls from 3,200 last May to 890 at present. Coal mine shutdowns also contributed to the unemployment problem.

Passes Relief Levy.

CLEVELAND — (UP) — Passage by the voters of a 3.4 mill special levy to finance statutory welfare services in Cuyahoga county for the next two years assured aid today for some 40,000 persons under various public assistance programs.

The complete unofficial tabulation showed 63,713 favorable votes as against 27,721 negative ones, the approving votes totalling about 70 percent of the number cast. A 65 percent majority was required for passage.

GEN. JOHNSON:

U. S. Should Decide What To Defend, Then Get Set On an Adequate Defense

—By HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—If the president doesn't appoint some kind of a mixed commission to investigate and report upon our plans and prospects for national defense, then congress should appoint a joint committee to do the same thing.

About a month ago, Col. Wild Bill Donovan proposed such a commission, to consist of representatives of all affected governmental departments and a few prominent civilians.

The administration admittedly has not yet formulated any fixed long-range policy for national defense. The president has suggested that the country make up its mind on this. Before defense can be properly prepared, we have to know what we are going to defend.

Will we fight for our slight dab of American trade in China? Do we propose to hold our long and dangerous salient in the Philippines? Is Guam our advance base? Will we fight to preserve the territory of South American countries? Are we really going to patrol the "safety belt" of the declaration of Panama with naval force, and fight if it is violated?

Under our Constitution, the president is commander-in-chief of the Army and Navy, but it is the duty of congress to "raise and support armies . . . to provide and maintain a navy . . . to make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces . . . to provide for organizing, arming and disciplining the militia."

* * *

We have little in the nature of basic military plan or policy, but there are plenty of willing workers in Washington just now cooking up surprise packages—most of them operating in watertight compartments, with precious little cooperation, or even knowledge, in the right hand of what the left hand doeth.

The recent revelation that Secretary Morgenthau of the treasury had a secret plan to control the war in Europe, by buying up all the loose strategic materials in the world with American taxpayers' money, is a case in point. It is typical from many angles.

No Westbrook Pegler column was received for publication today.

Mr. Morganthau's experience in this field is accurately reflected in the absurdity of the idea. It is the statutory duty of the War department, and not the treasury, to be making war plans. Finally, such plans require a close tieup of all affected departments. A little advice from men with experience enough at least to suspect something of what it is all about wouldn't do any harm at all.

But Henry isn't the only uninvited authority who is secretly warming up his think-tank to present scintillating surprise defense cure-alls in case of war.

Several of the leading fourth New Deal "thinkers" in more departments than one are busy. It was they who resented and scuttled the ill-fated Stettinius committee. They don't want any competition—not even from the War department.

Now, this is all incompetent nonsense in a dangerous field. The fact is that, at least on land and mechanization, motorization and anti-aircraft equipment, we are piteously unprepared for even home defense.

An even more alarming fact is that our plans to get these things promise results so few and slow that any fair appraisal would shock the country. In all the past excitement of the war abroad, we have neglected our own house. The coming excitement of a presidential campaign is likely to continue to keep public attention away from a pressing problem. That situation should be completely examined—now.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—It was a crowded set, full of extras and workers, for "The New Moon." A big ship scene was readying when Jeanette MacDonald arrived, her billowy hoopskirt protected from the floor's dust by supporting attendants.

"I wanted to tell Buster Keaton the ham story," said Jeanette to Marie Blake, her sister who was visiting, "but I couldn't—too many people—they would talk."

Ham story? "Oh, it's silly," said Jeanette. "Not really a story at all. Just a gag—the end is you slap the face of the person hearing it. And if I slapped Buster's face, before all these people, the story would get around that I was fighting him and being temperamental. . . ."

A couple of days later I heard the rest of it, though to this day Buster Keaton probably hasn't heard the ham story—because the sets have been pretty generally crowded. It takes a lot of folks to make "The New Moon" shine.

Jeanette was in her dressing room on the set. Jeanette and pink hoopskirt covering a long settee.

* * *

It's the people around who aren't "in" on the gag, that start the bad talk, said Jeanette.

"Once on a Lubitsch set," she said, "Lili Damita and I framed a quarrel. We were tearing into each other—for Lubitsch's benefit, and he joined in, because he dearly loves a gag. The set was full of extras. By lunch-time it was all over the lot: Damita and MacDonald were fighting, carrying on frightfully. So I don't have jokes any more."

And there was the time she kicked the chair. Somebody saw that, but the end of the story—the really amusing part—was missed.

"I was recording songs for a (W. S.) Van Dyke picture. Now I don't get mad at other people but I do get furious with myself when I think I've been stupid. That day, recording, I sang the wrong words and I got furious with myself. I kicked the chair in front of me, and it fell down. I said, "I'm sorry, but I'm an idiot!" That was all of the story that got around—about MacDonald's temperament.

"The rest of it was really funny, and nobody heard it. I was starting to sing again, but Van Dyke said, "Wait a minute!" He sent out for an iron chair, had it nailed down to the floor, and then said, "Now sing!" We all had hysterics, and I couldn't sing the rest of the day."

And could that be how the MacDonald-Eddy feud stories started, Miss M.?

"We used to kid a lot, but now we don't dare kid any more—people got so they thought we meant it," said Jeanette, airily. (Some still think they mean it. Private opinion: two singing stars, a popular team, are going to protect themselves in the clinches. If that's feuding, there'll never be an end to it.)

"But you aren't temperamental, Miss M.?" No-"

"I have my moments," she flashed back, going into a new scene. "Seriously, I don't think it's 'temperamental' to stand up for your rights, and I do that with the best of them. I call it 'temperamental' to take advantage of people who haven't any comeback. And I don't do that. Never!"

SIDEWALK FALL FATAL

CANTON—(AP)—James "Jerry" Buck, 68, assistant foreman at the Canton Repository in charge of advertising composition, was injured fatally when he fell on the icy sidewalk in front of his home last night. He was taking his pet fox terrier for a walk at the time.

YEAH—I'VE GOT TO GET OUT OF TOWN. THINGS ARE TOO HOT. IT'S ONLY A MATTER OF TIME TILL A SAWED-OFF SHOTGUN COMES ALONGSIDE ME IN A TAXI—OR THE COP'LL DROP DOWN.
I'LL LEAVE THIS BURG, THAT'S WHAT I'LL DO. BUT I WON'T LEAVE ALONE.
GOODNIGHT, BINNIE, DEAR.
GOODNIGHT, GRANDMA. OH—OH, YOU'RE SO GOOD TO ME, GRANDMA!
GRANDMAS ARE ALWAYS GOOD TO THEIR GRANDCHILDREN, BINNIE. SOMETIMES THEY LOVE THEM EVEN MORE THAN THEIR OWN CHILDREN.
I DON'T EVER WANT TO BE AWAY FROM YOU, GRANDMA—NOT EVER.
